A Saint or a Brute.

6. The very Bodily informities of Believers, are a constant help to keep them humble. They have all this treasure but in earthen veffels, 2 Cor. 4. 7. Their fouls are here to poorly lodged in corruptible Tabernacles of earth, and fo meanly cloathed with frail, diseased, mortal flesh, that it is madness to be proud.

7. And the many and great afflictions of the godly, are medicines that are purpolely given them by their Physicion to cure Pride, and keep them humble. Why elfe must their fufferings be fo many ? and why must they daily bear the Crofs? but that they may be conformed to the image of Chrift.

8. And to the fame end it is that God doth let loofe upon them fo many enemies. All Satans temptations, and the worlds allurements and vexations, and all their difappointments here, and all the fcorns and mocks of the ungodly, and the cenfures and flanders of wicked tongues, and often bitter perfescutions, what are they but the bitter medicines of God (permitted and ordered by him, though cauled by the Devil and wicked men) to fave the fervants of the Lord, from the fin and danger of being lifted up? Do you fay that their Honour will make them proud ? Why you that thus oppose them and despise them, are curing them of their pride, and do not know it : as Scullions fcoure the ruft off the veffels for their Mafters use ; and as Leeches draw out the blood that caufeth the difease; and as the Jews by their fin promoted the Redemption of the world by the death of Chrift. When God feeth his fervants in danger of being lifted up above measure, he ofe fendeth a messenger of Satan (who may be an Executioner of Gods chastilements) to buffet them, (2 Cor. 12.7.) Sometimes by flanders, fometime by reproaches, fometime by imprifonments or greater fufferings, and fometimes by horrid troublesom temptations.

9. The very forefight of death it felf is a humbling means : and the last enemy Death, is yet unconquered, and our Bodies must corrupt in dust and darkness, and be kept in the grave as common earth, till the Refurrection, that the foul may not grow proud that hath fuch a body.

11. And the Day of Judgement is to defcribed to us in the Scripture, as tends to keep the foul in awe and in Humility. To think of such a day, and such a reckoning , before such a God, me thinks thould humble us.

II. And

264

Part II.

11. And our Abfolmion and Glorification at that day, is promifed us now but conditionally (though God will fee that the condition be performed by all that he will fave.) And therefore the poor foul is oft to far to feek about the certain fincerity of his own Faith and Repentance, that most of the godly are kept in fears and doubtings to the death. Yea and Humility and Selfdenyal are part of this Condition : And all their Honour and Glory with Christ is promifed to the Humble only : Hamility is commanded them in the Precept : Humility is it that they are exhorted to by the Ministers : And Pride is threatened with everlasting wrath, and described as the Devils image. So that Holiness hath all the advantages against Pride that can be here expected.

12. To conclude, the Godly know that as they have nothing but from God, fo they have nothing but for God: fo that their own Honour is for him, more then for them felves; and it is effential to their Holinefs, to make God their end, and fet him highef, and referr all to his Pleasure and Glory. So that you see now that we may Honour them that fear the Lord, (Pfalm 15.4.) without being guilty of making them proud, and that we must not deny them the Honour that God hath given them as their due, for fear of their being proud of it. Though this, as all things elfe, must be prudently managed to particular perfons, according to their various states.

And therefore let me here warn all you that profess the fear of God: Take heed left you be prond of any thing that God hath Honoured you with: For if you be, you fee what an Army of Reafons and Means you fin againft; and confequently how great your fin will be. And your confeiences and the world fhall be forced to juftifie God and his Holy wayes, and to prove againft you, that it was not long of them that you were proud: and that none in the world was more against it then God and Holinefs: and that it was not because you were for Religious, but because you were no more Religious. And if Pride of Knowledge, Gifts, or what loever, be unmortified in you, it will certainly prove that you are none of the fanctified; when your profession of Santity will never prove that Santity was a cause or confederate in your fin. ż.

A ND now I have shewed you the Honour of Godlines, let us briefly, (and but briefly) confider of your Honour that reject it, and see then whether the godly or ungodly are more Honourable.

1. Ungodly men have the Basest Master in the world. Would you know who ? Let Chrift be Judge , John 8. 44. [Te are of your father the Devil, and the lasts of your father you will do.] 2 Tim. 2. 26. They are taken captive by the Devil at his will; that is, to do his will : It is he that ftirreth you up to filthy talking, to speak against Godliness, to curse and swear, and you do his will. His will is, that you fhould neglect a holy life, and you do his will. His will is, that you live not after the spirit, but after the fieth, and you do his will. O poor fouls! Do you think it is only Witches that expressly Covenant with him, that are his miferable fervants ! Alas, it is you also, if you do his will. For (if you will believe either God or common reason) [to whom you yield your felves fervants to obey, his fervants you are to whom you obey, whether of fin unto death, or of obedience unto righteonfres.] Rom. 6. 16. The godly themfelves were the servants of fin, till they obeyed from the heart the doctrine of the Lord, v. 17. And are you not come to fair preferment, to be the Devils drudges !! Though he fhould cloath your Bodies with Purple and fine linnen, and feed you sumptuously every day, yet indeed you are no better, as the cafe of that miferable man may tell you, Luke 16. It is the greatest Baseness to have so Base a Master.

2. And it is but an ignoble Bale de fign that the ungodly carry on in the world. What is it but to provide for, and pleafe their flefh? It aimeth at nothing beyond this life. And a beaft can eat, and drink, and fleep, and play, and fatisfie his luft, as much as they. A fwine can carry a mouth full of ftraw to his lodging, and a bird can build a neft for her young ones. And what do ungodly men more in the world ! whether Gentlemen or Beggars, the flattered Gallants or the poor day-labourers, if they be not fuch as first feek Heaven, and live to God, what do they but make a pudder in the world, about a little dirt or fmoak? and find themfelves fomewhat to do that is next to nothing, inftead of that for which they were created; and bufie themfelves about mothing till their time is gone, and the night is come when none can work? If you would judge of a mans Defigns, fore-fee his Attainments. If you can tell what End it is that they come to, you may know how to judge of their intentions and their conrfe. Their corpfes you know, have no greater a Happinefs, (after a few foolifh merry hours) then to lie in the earth as filth or duft. You can fee no Honour attained there. It is a child indeed that thinks a guilded Monument over a rotten carkafe, is any great matter of Honour or Benefit to it. And if you look after the foul, (by the prospective of the Word of God) alas, it goeth to far greater diffhonour. And is this it that worldlings make fuch a ftir for ?

3. The work also that they are employed in, is like the Defigit. Sin, which is the Basef thing in the world, is their employment. The work of a Scullion, or the baseft honeft trade you can imagine, is a thousand times less diffuonourable, then fix: Yet flattered Gallants believe not this, when they can please their flesh without losing the teputation of worthy Gentlemen! Nor will our common ungodly people be perfwaded of it, that are more as flamed to be found praying then finning, and to be called a Puritane then a Good-fellow or a Swearer : and that think they are as good men as others, when up to the ears in the drudgery of the Devil: As if the filth of fin were no diffionour to them, which nothing but the Spirit and blood of Christ is able to wash out. These are the men that Pant mentioneth with weeping; Pbil. 3. 18. that mind earthly things, whose God is their belly, and who glory in their shame.

4. Moreover, it is a Base disposition that ungodly men are possible with. Though their Natures are effentially noble as being the work of God, and capable of most glorious things; yet have they made them Dispositively Vile: They are fleshlyminded, earthly-minded, ignorant of Heavenly things, not favouring the things of the Spirit, but like the Serpent, crawling on earth, and feeding on the dust. Grass is fweeter to a horse then junkets; and a little money or vain-glory is fweeter to a fleshly mind then God and Glory, and all the treasures of Saints and Angels. A fwine never thinks of God or Heaven, but of his draffe and flie: Ease, and good chear, and money, and the flattery of men, are the God and the Heaven of fensual men. And are not these men of Base dishonourable spirits? Unworthy men ! might you have an Everlasting life, and will you preferre a few dayes fleshly pleasure? As furely as you may know the Balenis of a fwine or dog by what they feed upon, fo furely may you know the baseness of a carnal mind, by the basenefs of its defires and delights.

5. It is also a Bale Society that ungodly men are members of. They are in the Kingdom of darkness, Col. 1. 13. Alts 26. 18. and are dead in fin, in which they walk according to the course of the world, according to the Prince of the power of the air, the Spirit that now walketh in the children of disobedience, among whom they have their conversations. Eph.2. 1,2, 3. Devils are their invisible companions, and micked mentheir visible : but they have none of the prefence and favour of the Lord, nor any communion with him in the fpirit.

6. The greatest Dishonour of the ungodly is, that the God of Heaven refuseth to Honour them : yea he despiseth them : yea he dishonoureth them with most contemptuous titles. And certainly God knoweth what he faith of them ; and it is impoffible that he fhould do them wrong. Yet doth he call them the feed of the Serpent, that fand at enmity with his flock , Gen. 3. 15. he calls them his enemies, and accordingly will use them, Luke 19. 27. He calls them Dogs and Swine, and the Children of the Devil, John 8. 44. Matth. 7. 6. They diffionoured and despised him, and he will dishonour and despise them, and hath refolved that their very names shall rot, Prov. 10. 7.

7. But it is the Everlafting fiame that will tell us what was the Honomr of the ungodly. When Chrift shall be ashamed of them before his Father and the Heavenly Angels, Matth. 8. 38. and shall tell them that he never knew them, Matth. 7. 23. When all their former pomp and splendour, will be turned into perpetual shame and forrows, then where is the Honour of the ungodly world ? Where then are their flatterers? Who boweth to them, and calleth them Right Honourable and Right Worshipfull any more ? Where now are their sumptaous houses and attendance? Now they have other kind of fervitours; and other language, and other usage then they had on earth. And the poor wretches that flormed at a faithful Minister for foretelling these woeful changes to them, and speaking so dishonourably of them, as to tell them of their fin, are at last fay-. ing:

ing an handred fold worfe of themfelves, then ever we did fay againfi them. Then they fhall need none to call them fools, and vile, and wretches, but their own Confciences, that will fpeak it out, and fpeak it again ten thoufand times, and never be bribed to forbear. O how bafe a defpicable Generation will the ungodly then be (that now fpeak fo ftoutly and look fo high) when God fhall everlaftingly frown them into contempt and mifery, and the glorified Saints fhall look down upon them without compafiion, even prafing the Juffice that for ever doth torment them ! Then let the Kings and Nobles of the earth maintain their antient Honours if they can : Or let them take comfort in the remembrance of their former dreams : and try whether this will be to them inftead of a drop of water.

Well, Sirs, I have faithfully told you from the Word of God, of the Honour of the Godly, and the Balenels of the ungodly, that you may be refolved, which is the Better part. If yet you will not fee, you shall fee and be assumed, Ifa. 26. 11. When you have heard your last and dreadful doom, and feen the Lord make up his Jewels, then shall you difcern between the Righteous and the wicked; between him that ferveth God, and him that ferveth him not, Mal. 3. 17, 18.

Holiness the most Pleasant Way.

Have proved beyond all reafonable contradiction that Holinefs is the Safe, the Honeft, the Profitable and the Honourable fate and courfe : But my hardeft task is yet to be done ; and that is, to prove it the most Pleasant way. And the difficulty of this is not at all from the matter, but from the perfons with whom T have to do. For nothing is Pleasant unto men, but what is sutable to their natures, and apprehended by them to be for their good, or in it felf more excellent then their good. That is Plea-Tant to one man that is loathfom to another. As the food and converse is delightful to a beast, that is loathsom and as bad as death to man : So one mans Pleasure is anothers Pain. Even about the common matters of this life, variety of complexions. educations, customs, dispositions, doth cause a variety of affections; the difference between the fanctified and unfanctified, the spiritual and the carnal mind, doth cause a greater contrariety. If therefore the errour of wicked minds, or the diftem. per of your fouls, do make the Best things feem the worst, and the sweeteft things to seem most Bitter, this is no confutation of my Argument, that proves the way of Godline /s most Plea / ant. If I would prove that wine is pleafanter then Vinegar, or Bread then dirt or ashes. I mean not to appeal to the appetites of the fick; It is the found and healthful that must be judges. If a man will fuffer his mind to be posseffed with prejudice and base thoughts of God himfelf, no wonder if he cannot love him, nor take any delight in him:

And if men have a malignant enmity to Godliness, no reason will perswade them that it is most pleasant, but what perswades them from that enmity. No Reason will perswade a floathful person that Labour is better then sleep and idleness; no Reason will perswade a drunkard, glutton, or voluptuous wretch, that abstinence and continence are the sweetest life. Could we change their Hearts, we should change their Pleasures. Such as men are, fuch are their delights But the thing that I undertake, 15, to manifest to any competent discerner, that Holiness is the most Pleasant

Pleafant course; and that all the Pleafures of the Earth are Nothing to the Pleafures which the Godly find in God, and in a Holy life : and if any be not of this mind, it is because his fouls difeases have made him an incompetent judge. And that Godlines is the Pleasant State of life, will appear to you, I. From the Nature of the thing it fels. 2. From the encouragements and helps with which it is attended. 3. From the effects and fruits.

I. The Nature of Holinefs is to be found, 1. In the Understanding, 2. In the will and affections, and 3. In the Practice of mens lives. And in all thefe I shall shew you that it is the most Delightful courfe.

1. Knowledge in it felf is a pleafant thing to humane nature. Ignorance is the blindnels of the foul. It is not fo pleafant for the eyeto behold the fun, as for the mind of man to difern the truth To Know Good and Evil, had never been the matter of fo ftrong a Temptation to Adam, if Knowledge had not been very defirable to innocent nature. How hard do many even ungodly perfons fludy to know the mysteries of Nature? And nothing hath more ftrongly tempted fome wretches to witchcraft or contracts with the Devil, then a defire of knowing unrevealed things, which by his means they have hoped to attain. A findieus man hath far more natural valuable Delight, in his reading and fuccesful fludies, then a vol nptnens Epicure hath in his fenfus al Delights.

But it is a special kind of Knowledge that Holiness doth (initially) confift in, which transcendeth in true Pleasure all the common wisdom of the world : For

1. How Pleafant a thing must it needs be to know things of fohigh a Nature ? To know the Almighty, Living God: to behold his widdom, goodnefs and power, in his glorious works, to be led to him by all the Creatures, and hear of him by every Providence, and find his Holy Bleffed Name in every leaf of his facred word, how fweet and pleafant a thing is this ! To know the Divine Nature, Perfons, Attributes, and Will, to know the mystery of the Incarnation, of the perfon, natures, undertaking, performance of the bleffed Mediator Jefus Chrift, to know his birth, his life, temptations, conquefts, his righteoufnefs, his holy doctrine and example, the Law and promife, the Law of Nature, and the Covenant of Grace, the fufferings, Refarrection, afcenfion, glorification and interceffion of our Lord: to know his Kingdom, Laws, and Government, and his Judgement, with his Rewards and punifhments; to know the fanctifying works of the Holy Ghoft, by which we are ptepared for everlafting life; and to know that life (though but by faith) for which we are here prepared, how high and pleafant a thing is this ! If it be pleafant to know the courfe of nature, in those higher parts that are above the vulgar reach, what is it to know the God of Nature, and the true afe and End of Nature ? What high things doth the pooreft Christian know? He knoweth the things that are invisible.

Think not that faith is fo void of Exidence as not to deferve the name of Knowledge : We Know the things which we do believe. Nicodemus could fay from the Evidence of Miracles, Joh. 3.2. We know that thou are a Teacher come from God : for no man could do these miracles that thou doft, except God be with him. Joh. 9. 29. We know that God fake to Mofes,] fay the Jews. We know that the Scripture testimony is true, 70h. 21. 24. 2 Cor. 5. I. We know (even by believing) that if this earthly boule of our tabernacle were diffelved, we have a building of God, an house not made with hands, eternal in the heavens] I Joh. 3. 2. We know that when we shall appear, we shall be like him, for we shall fee him as he is] Joh. 14. 20. At that day ye shall know that I am in my Father, and you in me, and I in you We know that no whoremonger or fuch like thall inherit eternal life, Eph. 5.5. We know that our Labour is not in vain in the Lord, I Cor. 15. 58. Many fuch paffages of Scripture tell us, that Faith is a certain Knowledge, and that Invisible things revealed by God, are certainly known. We know what Saints and Angels are now doing in the highest heavens: for God hath told us. We know the most high and glorious things revealed by God, which we never law. And is not the Pleasure of such knowledge greater then the Pleasure of all the wealth, the honour and fenfual enjoyments in this world ! I durft almost reter the cafe to one of you that are most befooled by your own fensuality. If you could go to morrow and meet with a foul from Heaven, or with an Angel, that could tell you what becomes of fouls, and what is done in another world, Would you not rather goe to fuch a conference, then go as far to a drinking, or a bowling, or fome fuch recreation? I think you would, if it were but to fatisfie your enriofity and desire

A Saint or a Bruse,

Pare II. defire of Knowing. Why then should not the fervants of Chrift more Delight, in the reading and hearing the words of Chrift, that came from the bosome of the Father, that hath feen God, and is with God, and is God himself, that telleth them more certainly of the Invisible things then any Saints or Angels can tell them? Why fhould not this, I fay be fweeter to them, then all the fleshly pleasures in the world? O that I could know more of God, and more of the mystery of Redemption, even of an obedient, crucified, glorified Chrift; and more of the invifible world, and of the bleffed state of fouls, on condition I left all the Pleasures of this world, to fenfual men ! O that I had more clear and firm apprehensions of these transcendent glorious things ! How easily could I fpare the Pleafures of the flefh, and leave those husks to fwine to feed on? O could my Soul get nearer God, and be more irradiated with his heavenly beams, my mind would need no other recreation, and I should as little relish carnal Pleasures, as carnal minds do relish the heavenly delights. As earthly thing sare poor and low, fo is the knowledge of them. As things spiritual and heavenly are High and Glorious, mysterious and profound, the knowledge of them is accordingly Delighful [And without controversie great is the mystery of Godliness; God was manifest in the flesh, justified is the spirit, seen of Angels, preached to the Gentiles, believed on in the world, received up into glory, I Tim. 3.16. Faith is the Ewidence of things not feen, Heb. 11.1. It is far pleafanter by faith to fee the Lord, then to fee any Creature by the eye of flesh : and sweeter by faith to see Heaven opened, and there behold our Glorified Lord, then to fee a horfe-race, or flage-play, or any of the fooleries of the world.

2. The knowledge of things to Come is specially defired, and Godlinefs containeth that Faith which knoweth things to come. How glad would men be to be told what fhall befall them to the last hour of their lives? The woman of Samaria Joh. 4. called out her neighbours with admiration to fee Chrift, as one that had told her all that free had done : But if he had told her all that ever the would do, for the time to come, and all that ever should befall her, it might have aftonished her much more. Believers know what hathbeen even before the world was made, and how it was made, and what hath been fince then, and they know what will be to all eternity. A true Believer knows from Scripture, pture, whither mens Souls go after death, and how their Bodies shall be raised again, and how Christ will come to Judge the world, and who shall then be justified, and who shall be condemned : and what shall be the cafe of the godly and the ungodly to all eternity. And is it not more pleasant to know these things, then to poffefs all the vain delights of the earth ? Can the flefs afford you any thing fo delightful ?

3. Especially, it is defireable and Pleasant to Know those things that most concern us : Needless speculations and curiofities we can fpare : There is a Knowledge that brings more pain then plealure; Yea there is a Knowledge that will torment. But to know our own affairs, our greatest and most necessary affairs; to know our threatened mifery to prevent it, and to know our offered Happiness to obtain it ; to know our Portion, our Honour, our . God, what can be more Pleafant to the mind of man ! Other mens matters we can pafs by : But to Know fuch things concerning our own fouls, as what we must be and do for ever, and what course we must take to be everlastingly happy, must needs be a feast to the mind of a wife man. Ask but a foul that is haunted with temptations to unbelif, whether any thing would be more welcome to him, then the clear and fatisfying apprehenfions of a lively faith ? Ask one that lyeth in tears or groans, through the feeling of their fin, and the fears of the wrath of God, and doubtings of his love, whether the fatisfying Knowledge of pardon, and reconciliation, and divine acceptance, would not be more pleafant to them, then any of your merriments can be to you ? Ask that poor foul that hath loft the apprehension of his Evidences of grace, and walks in darkness, and hath no light, that feeks, and cryes, and perceives no hearing, whether the difcovery of his Evidences, the affurance that his Prayers are accepted, and the light of Gods countenance shining on him, would not be Better to him then any Recreation, or any Pleasure the earth affords. Ask any man at the hour of death, that is not a block, Whether now the Knowledge of his falvation would not be Better and more Pleasant to him, then all the luft, or sport, or honours of the world.

4. The Knowledge of the Beft and foyf nlleft matters, must be the Best and Pleasantest Knowledge. And nothing can be Better then God and Glory. Nothing can be / meeter then (alvation; and therefore this must be the sweetest Knowledge. I had rather have the pleasure of one hours clear and lively Knowledge of my falvation, and of the special Love of God, then to be exalted above the greatest Prince, and to have all the Pleasures that my fenses can defire. The Delights of the sefurate base and brutish, and nothing to the spiritual Heavenly Delights of the renewed mind.

5. The manner of our Holy Knowledge, makethit more Delightful. 1: It is a Certain and Infallible Knowledge. It is not a [may be], or bare poffibility : It is not, It is poffible there may be a Heaven and Happiness hereafter : But it is as true as the Wordof Godistrue : We have his own hand, and feal, and earnes for it : Even his precious promifes, and oath, confirmed by miracles, and fulfilled-prophecy, and bearing his own image and superscription, and shining to us by its own light : We have in our hearts the firit which is Gods earnest, by which we are fealed up to the day of our final full redemption. And if the foul yet Itagger at the promife of God through the remnants of unbelief, that shall not make the promise of God of none effect ; but his foundation shall still stand fure : His word shall not pass till all be fulfilled, though heaven and earth fhall pafs away. A meflage by one that were fent to us from the dead, were not more credible then the Word of God. And this Certainty of Holy Faith and Knowledge is a very great contentment to the foul. When the Glory of the Saints is a thing as fure as if we faw it with our eyes, and as fure as these things which we daily see; it is a great pleasure to the foul, when it can but apprehend this joyful Certainty:

2. And that there is a certain easines and plainness in the great and necessary points of faith, as to the manner of Revelation, doth add much to Faith's, Satufattion and Delight. The points that life and death lie on, are not left fo obfcure as might perplex us, left we did not know the meaning of them. But they are fo plain, that he that runs may read them; and the simple, that are but honess-hearted, may certainly understand them: Which quiets, and pleaset, and statisfies the mind.

3. And yet there is an exciting Difficulty in many things that are offered to our Knowledge, which doth but make our holy fludies the more delightful. If the Word of God were so plain and obvious to all, that it might be all underflood at the first reading, the plainness would bring our Sacred Knowledge into contempt, as being an easie common thing. Things common and easily got, are little fet by : But when the plainness is fuch as may prevent our despair and diffatisfaction , and yet the Difficulty fuch, that it may hold us in study, and prevent our contempt, it makes the most delightful Knowledge. It is Pleasant to find some daily addition to our Light, and to be on the gaining and thriving hand, and this upon our diligent fearch : Succeffes are as pleafant as a prefent fulnels of fupplies : The daily bleffing of God upon our fludies, and humble learning, addeth to our delight. So that all this fer together, may fnew you how pleafant a thing it is to have the Knowledge of a Saint.

Especially if you add that he hath an Experimental, and so a Sweeter Knowledge, then the most learned men have that are ungodly. He hath tafted that the Lord is gracious, and he hath tafted the sweetness of his Love, and of all the Riches of his Grace in Chrift, and of his full and precious promifes, and of the inward powerful workings of his fpirit. His experimental Knowledge is the most Delightful Knowledge.

The Pleasure of Natural Knowledge is great, but the Pleasure of faving Knowledge is much greater. I do not believe that ever any of the Ambitious troublers of the world, that let go Heaven that they may Rule on Earth, have half the Pleasure in their Greatness and usurped Dignities, as an boneft Student hath in his Books, and fludious exercifes and fucceffes : But if you compare the Pleasures of their Greatness and Commands, with the Pleafure of a true Believing foul, in his life of Faith, and fweet forethoughts of his Heavenly Inheritance, I must plainly tell you that we difdain the comparison. Again I fay, that if you will compare the Drunkards, the Fornicators, or the Ambitious or Covetous mans delight, with the folace that I find in my retired ftudies, even about natural common things, I difdain the comparison : But if you compare their Pleasure, with that little, alas too little, pleasure that I find in the believing thoughts of Life Eternall, I do not only difdain your comparison, but detelt it.

Were I minded to be long, I would thew you from these twelve particular Inftances, the abundant Pleafure of Holy Knowledge.

I. What a Pleafant thing is it to know the Lord, the Eternal God, in his bleffed Attributes ! The dimmeft glimmering Knowledge ledge of God, is better then the clearest Knowledge of all the mysteries of nature.

2. How Pleafant is it to know the works of his Creation ? How, and why, and when he made the world, and all that is therein ?

3. How Pleafant is it to know the bleffed Son of God, and to behold the face of his Fathers Love that is revealed in him as his fulleft Image?

4. How Pleafant is it to know the Law and Golpel : the Matter and the Method : the litteral and fpiritual fenfe : to fee there the mind and will of God : and to fee our Charter for the Heavenly Inheritance; and read the Precepts, and the Promifes, and the Examples of the faith and patience of the Saints ?

5. How Pleafant is it to know the Heavenly operations of the Holy Ghoft, and the nature and action of his feveral Graces, and the uses of every one of them to our souls; and especially to find them in our selves, and to be skilled in using them ?

6. How Pleafant is it to know the nature and frame of the Church of Chrift which is his Body, and to know the difference and use of the several members? To understand the office of the Ministry, and why Christ hath set them in the Church, and how much love he hath manifested therein: that they should preach to us, and offer us Reconciliation in his name and stead, 2 Cor. 5. 19. and marry us unto Christ in Baptism, receiving us in his name into the Church and holy Covenant: and that in his name and stead they should deliver us his body and blood, and absolve the penitent sinner from his sins, and deliver him a sealed pardon, and receive the returning humbled soul into the Church of Christ and Communion of the Saints !

7. How Pleafant is it to know the nature and use of all Christs Ordinances : The excellencies of his Holy Word : the use of Baptism, and the refreshing, strengthening use of the Supper of the Lord : the use and benefit of Holy prayer, and praises, and thanksgiving, and Church-order, and all parts of the Communion of the Saints !

8. Yea there is a holy Pleafure in knowing our very fin and folly. When God bringeth a finner to himfelf, though his fin be odient to him, yet to know the fin is Pleafant; and therefore he prayeth that God would fhew him the bottom of his heart, and the most fecret or odious of his fins.

o. And it is Pleafant to a Christian to know his Duty. It very much quieteth and delighteth his mind, when he can but know what is the will of God : When the way of Duty is plain before him, how chearfully can he go on, whatever meet him? and how eafie doth it make his labour and his fuffering?

10. Yeait is Pleasant to a Believer to understand his very danger : Though the Danger it felf be dreadful to him, yet to know it, that he may avoid it, is his defire and his delight.

II. And how Pleasant isit to understand all the Helps, Encouragements and Comforts that God hath provided for us in our way ? and how many more are for us, then against us?

12. But above all, how Pleasant is it to know by faith, the life. that we must live with God for ever ? and what he will do for us to all eternity, in the performance of his holy Covenant.

I do but briefly name these Instances of Delightful Knowledge. which are fweeter to the holy foul then all the Pleafures of fin to the ungodly. Do you think that any of you hath fuch folid Pleasure in your fins, as David had in the Law of God, when he meditated in it with fuch delight, and faith, How fweet is it to my mouth ? even (weeter then the honey and the bony-comb. Surely you dare not compare with him in Pleafures.

2. Another part of Holinefs that is Pleafant in the Nature of ic, is that which is subjected in the heart or affections. And here is the chiefest of its sweetness and delights.

I. The very compliance of the Will with the Will of God, and its Conformity to his Law, doth carry a quieting Pleafure in it. That foul is happyest that is nearest God, and likest to him ; and that foul may well be fulleft of Delight, that is most Happy : And that foul is nearest and likest unto God, whose Will is most conformed to his Will : The trouble of the Heart is its unsettledness, when it is not bottomed on the Will of God : When we feel that Gods. Will doth Rule and satisfie us, and that we would fain be what he would have us be, and reft in his Difpofing Will, as well as obey his Commanding Will, this gives abundant Pleasure and quietness to the foul.

2. The holy workings of Charity in the foul, are exceeding Pleasant. All the acts of Love to God and man are very sweet. This is the holy work, that is its own wages.

I. The Laneof God is fo fweet an exercise, that verily my foul Nn 3 had had rather be employed in it with fense and vigour, then to be Lord of all the earth. O could I but be taken up with the Love of God, how eafily could I spare the Pleasure of the flesh? Might I but see the Loveliness of my dear Creator, with a clearer view; and fee his glory in his noble works ; Might I but fee and feel that faving Love which he hath manifested in the Redeemer, till my foul were ravished and filled with his Love, how little should I care who had the Pleafures of this deceitful world ! Had I more of that bleffed spirit of Adoption, and more of those filial affections to my heavenly Father, which his unutterable Love bespeaks; and were I more sensible of his abundant mercy, and did my foul but breath and long after him more earnestly, I would pitty the miferable Tyrants of the world, that are worfe then Beggars while they domineer, and taft not of that Kingdom of Love and Pleasure that dwelleth in my breast. All the Pleasures of the world, are the laughing of a mad man, or the sports of a child, or the dreams of a fick man, in comparison of the Pleasures of the Love of God.

2. And the Love of Holinefs, the Image of God hath, its degree of Pleafure. And fo hath the Love of the Holy fervants of the Lord. There is a fweetnefs in the foul in its goings out after any Holy object, in fpiritual Love. Yea more, our very common Love of men, and our Love of Enemies, hath its proportion of pleafure, far better then the fenfual Pleafure of the ungodly. To feel fo much of the operations of grace, and to anfwer our holy pattern, in Loving them that hate us, doth give much eafe and pleafure to the mind. The exercifes of Love to God and man, and that for his fake, are the exceeding Pleafure of a gracious foul.

And here by the way, you may take notice of one reafon why Hypocrites and ungodly men find no fuch fweetnefs in the exercises of Religion; Because they let alone the inward Pleafant work of Love, which is the foul and life of Outward duty: This inward work is the Pleafant work : while they are strangers unto this, their outward duties will be but a toil, and feem a drudgery or a wearyfome employment.

There is a Pleasure even in Holy Desires: When a Christian feeleth his heart enlarged, in longing after the wellfare of the Church and the good of others. Though the absence of the thing defired be a trouble, yet the exercise of holy defire, (which

(which is an act of Love) is pleafant to us. If the Luffin have a pleasure in their vile Defires, and the Ambitious and the Coverous have a pleasure in their vain and delusory desires, the wife well-guided desires of a true believer must needs be pleafant.

4. Especially when Defire is accompanied with Hope. All the Pleasures of this world, are far fhort of affording that Reft and quiet to the foul, as the Hope of Glory doth to the believer. O happy foul that is acquainted by experience, with the lively Hopes of the everlasting Happiness ! It is not the Hope of corruptible Riches, nor of a fading inheritance, but of the Crown that fadeth not, and of the precious, certain, durable treasure ! It is not a Hope in the promise of a deceitful man, but in the word of the everliving God ! The foul that hath this Anchor, needs not be toffed with those fears and cares and anxieties of mind, that worldly men are subject to. This Hope will never make them ashamed. If a man were in a confumption, or fentenced to Death, would not the Hopes of Life, upon certain Grounds, be pleafanter to him, then sport, or mirth, or luftful objects, or any fuch prefent fensitive delights? Much more if with the hopes of Life, he had the hopes of all the felicities of Life, and of the perpetnity of all these ? O may I but be enabled by faith to lift up the eye of my foul to God, and view the everlasting manfions, and by hope to take poffession of them, and fay, All this is mine in Title, even upon the Promife of the faithful God ! what greater Pleafure can my foul posses. till it enter on the full Possession of those eternal Pleasures ! O poor deluded worldly men ! What is the Pleafure of your wealth to this? O brutish sinners ! what is the Pleasure of your mirth and jollity, your meat and drink, your pride and bravery, your luft and filthinels in comparison of this ! O poor Ambitious dreaming men, that make fuch a stir for the Honour and Greatness of this world ! What is the Pleasure of your Idol-honour, and fhort vainglory in comparison of this ! while you have it, you have no Hope of Keeping it : you are troubled with the thought of leaving it : Had we no higher Hopes then vours, how miferable fhould we be?

5. The Truft and repose of the foul on God, which is another part of the life of grace, is exceeding Pleafant and quieting to the foul. To find that we fland upon a Rock, and that under us are the everlasting arms, and that we have to full fecurity for our falvation, as the promise and Oath of the immutable God, what a stay, what a Pleasure is this to the Believer? The troubles of the godly are most from the remnants of their unbelief : The more they believe, the more they are comforted and eftablished : The life of faith is a Pleafant life. Faith could not conquer fo many enemies, and carry us through fo much fuffering and distrels, as you find in that cloud of testimonies, Heb. 11. if it were not a very comfortable work. Even we that fee not the falvation ready to be revealed, may yet greatly rejoyce, for all the manifold temptations, that for a season make us subject to some heavyness, I Pet. I. 5, 6. And we that fee not fesus Christ, yet Believing can love bim and rejoyce with joy unspeakable and full of glory, v. 8. The God of Hope doth sometimes fill bis fervants with all foy and peace in believing, and makes them even abound in Hope through the Power of the Holy Ghoft, Rom. 15.13.

6. Yea foy is it felf a part of the Holy qualification of the Saints, and of the renewed state that grace hath brought them into. For the Kingdom of God confifteth as in Rightconsness, so in Peace and foy in the Holy Ghoft, Rom. 14. 17. Believers receive not the spirit of bondage again to fear, that is, they are not under the bondage of the Law, nor have the firit or state of mind which is fuited to those Legal impositions and terrible comminations : but they have received the firit of Adoption by which they cry Abba father, that is, As they are brought under a more gracious dispensation, and a better Covenant and promises, and God is revealed to them in the Gospel as a Reconciled Father through his fon, fo doth he treat them more gently as reconciled children, and the spirit which answereth this gracious Covenant, and is given us thereupon, doth qualifie us with a child-like disposition, and cause us with boldness, Love and confidence, to call God Father, and fly to him for fuccour and fupply, in all our dangers and neceffities. And how Pleafant it must be to a believing foul, to have this fpirit of Adoption, this childlike Love and confidence, and freedom with the Lord, methinks you might conjecture, though its fenfibly known by them only that enjoyit, Gal. 5. 22. The fruit of the first is Love, Joy, Peace, &c.] when the word is first received by Believers, though it may be in much affliction, through the perfecutions and crofs that attend attend the Gofpel, yet is it ordinarily in the foy of the Holy Ghoft, I Thef. 1.6. The Holy Ghoft is the Comforter of true Believers: And if he have taken it upon him as his work, he will furely do it, in the degree and feafon fitteft for them. And if Joy it felf be part of the flate of Grace and Holinefs, you may see that it is the most delightful Pleasant course.

7. Yea that we may have a Pleafant and comfortable life, the Lord hath forbidden our distracting cares and fears and doubts, and our inordinate forrows; and commanded us to caft our care on him, and promised to care for us, I Pet. 5.7. and he hath bid us be careful for nothing, but in all things make our wants known to him, Phil. 4. 6. And can there be a course of life more Pleafant then that which doft confift in faith, and Love, and hope, and Joy, thats built on God, and animated by him, and that excludeth inordinate cares and forrows, as health doth ficknels? where it is unlawful to be milerable and to grieve our felves, and no forrow is allowed us, but that which tendeth to our joy; where it is made our work to Rejoyce in the Lord, yea always to Rejoyce, Phil. 4. 4. A fervant or tradefman will judge of the pleafure of his life by his work. If his work be a drudgery, his life is tedious and filled with grief : If his work be Pleafant, his life is pleafant. Judge then by this of a Holy life. Is it care, and fear, and anguish of mind that God commandeth you ? no: it is these that he forbiddeth. [Care not : Fear not] are his injunctions, I(a. 35. 4. & 41.10. Do you fear Reproach ? Why, you do it contrary to the will of God, who biddeth you, Fear not the reproach of men, Ifa. 51.7.] Do you fear the power and rage of enemies? Why it is contrary to your Religion fo to do : God biddeth you, Fear them not, Ifa. 43.5, 13, 14. & 44. 2, 8. Do you fear persecution or death from the hands of cruel violence? why it is contrary to the will of God that you do fo, Matth. 10. 26, 28, 31. Fear not them which kill the body, &c.] O bleffed life! where all that is against us is forbidden: and all that is truly Joyous and delightful, and necessary to make us happy, is commanded us, and made our duty : which is contrary to mifery, as life to death, and as light to darknefs. Come hither poor deluded finners that fly from care, and fear and forrow : If you will but give up your felves to Christ, you shall be exempted from all these, except such as is necessary to your joy. You may do any thing, if you will be the fervants of the Lord, 00 except except that which tendeth to your own and other mens calamity. Come hither all you that call for pleasure, and love no life but a life of mirth. Let God be your mafter, and Holinefs your mork, and Pleafure then shall be your busines : and holy Mirth shall be your employment ; While you serve the fleth, your pleasure is fmall, and your trouble great : vexation is your work, and unspeakable venation is your wages. But if you will be the hearty fervants of the Lord, Rejoycing shall be your work and wages : If you understand not this, peruse your lesson, Pfal. 33. I. Rejoyce in the Lord O ye Righteous, for Praise is comely for the npright.] Pfal. 97. 11, 12. Light is fown for the rightcons, and gladness for the upright in heart : Rejoyce in the Lord ye Righteons : and give thanks at the remembrance of his boline(s.] Phil. 3. I. Pfal. 5. II. [Let all those that trust in thee rejoyce : let them ever shout for joy, because thou defendest them : let them also that Love thy name, be joyful in thee.] Plal. 32. 11. Be glad in the Lord, and rejoyce yerighteous, and shout for joy all ye that are upright in heart.] Plal. 132. 9. 16. [Let thy Priests be cleathed with Rightconfness, and let thy Saints Shout for joy : 16. I will alfo cloath her Priefts with falvation, and his Saints shall shout aloudfor joy] fuch precepts and promises abound in Scripture, which tell you if you will be Saints indeed, that Joy and gladnels must be your life and work. I know objections will be ftirring in your minds : But forbear them but a while, and I shall fully answer them anon.

2. I have told you wherein the Inward part of Holinels is Delightful; I shall briefly shew you that the Outward part also is very Pleasant, and fit to feed these inward joys. And I. let us view the Duties that are more directly to be performed unto God : and 2. The works of charity and righteousnels unto men.

I. How fweet is it to be exercised in the word of God ? In hearing or reading it with serious meditation ? For the man that hath been revived by it, renewed, fanctified, faved by it, to hear that powerful heavenly truth, by which his foul was thus made new ! For the foul that is in Love with God, to hear or fee his bleffed name, on every leaf ! to read his will, and find the expressions of his Love, his great, eternal, wonderous love, how, fweet this is, experience tells the Saints that feel it : If you that feel no fweetness in it, believe not them that fay they feel it, at least believe the word of God, and the professions of his ancient Saints
