[279] 3. When Leo came to reign, the fedition revived at Alexandria between the murderers of Proterius: Timothy Elurus made Bishop by the Councils enemies, deposed by Leo, and Timothy, Salophaciolus put in his place, and all was in con. fusion. The Egyptian Bishops write to the Emperour against the Eutychians; The Emperour fends forth his circular letters for the Council; Niceph. 1. 15. c. 17. 18. 19. 4. At Antioch, Petrus, C aphens ambitious of the Bishoprick, got into Martyrius place by Leo's help, and anathematized all that would not fay that God was Crucified and Suffered, and tore that Church in pieces : Martirins, when he could do no good, forfook them, with these words [ Clero rebelli et populo inobedienti & ecclesia contaminata nuncium remitto :] Cnapheus reviled the Council : Leo for this banifhed him : Stephanus, a friend of the Council, fucceeded him; him boyes killed with fharp quils and caft him into the river for favouring the Council : And Calendion fucceeding him, made them Anathematize the aforefaid Cnaphins. Leo being dead, diffolute Zeno reigned. Busiliscus taking advantage of his lewd life, usurped the Empire, and made use of the Schifms to promote his ends : And first publisheth his circular against the Council of Calcedon; to this faith Niceph. 1. 16. c.4. befides the three Patriarchs no lefs than five hundred Bishops subscribed, and renounced the Council. But Acacius of Constantin. and Dav. Columella perswaded Basiliscus quickly to write clean contrary Letters for the Council, feeing that this was like to prove the ftronger fide. Then things were turned back again; till Zeno. thought it the best way to write his Henoticon or a Conciliatory edict, that none should be forced to profess themselves either for or against the Council, perceiving that the Bifhops would never come to agreement, either as for it or against it : But this ended not the divisions : But at Antioch Calendion was cast out. And Pet. Cnaphens got in again : And at Alexandria between Peter Moggus and Iohn ftriving who fhould hold the place, all was in confusion. Yea the Schifm reached to Rome alfo; for Moggus at Alexandria Anathematizing the Council, and perfecuting diffenters, The Emperour feeks to reconcile them: Felix at Rome condemneth Acafus at Constantinople, for communicating with Moggus : Acafins condemneth Felix, blorting his name out of the Sacred Albe. Asafins dyeth, and the Emperour found it fo hard to choose a Patriarch, that should cause no fedition, that he will have God choose one; and to that end puts a blanck paper on the Altar, and another requefting God that an Angel might write there the name of the Patriarch that fhould poffefs the place: The doors are lock'r, and forty daies fafting and prayer commanded to prevail with God : One Flavitas bribeth the Key- Keeper, who was the Emperours Lord Chamberlain, and he writeth, Flavitas name in the Paper and fealeth up the door again, and fo there was a Patriarch chofen by an Angel; but dyed fuddenly within four months ; But before he dyed, he joyned with Peter

Euphemius fucceeded him, and he rafed Peters name out of the Book, and joyned with the Roman Bishop. Peter and Euphemins as Generals were gathering fynodical Armies against each other, and Peter dyeth. Athanafins that fucceeded him, would fain have reconciled his Church but could not: Palladius fucceeded Peter Cnapheus at Antioch : Both these Patriarchs joyn together to curie the Council of Calcedon; They die: John fucceeded at Alexandria and Flavianus at Antioch : These also joyn to curfe the Council, while the Patriarchs of Rome and Constantinople are for it, and curse them. Zeno dieth, and Anastasius Dicorus is chosen Emperour. He (faith Niceph. l. 16. c. 25.) being a man of Peace, and defiring the ceafing of all contention, left all to their liberty to think of the Council of Calcedon as they pleafed : Hereupon the Bifhops . fell into three Parties, fome fervent for every word of the Council; fome curfed it; and fome were for Zeno's Henoticon, or filence, or fuspenfion : These renounced communion accordingly with one another; the Eaft was one way; the West another; and Libya another: Nav, the Eastern Bishops among themselves ; the Western among themselves, and the Lybian among themfelves, renounced communion with each other (Niceph. c. 25) Tanta confusio mentiumque Caligo (laith the Hiltorian) orbem universum incoffit. The Emperour having refolved to keep peace, and make make no change, was forced to fall upon those of both fides that were most turbulent. At Con" stantinople he put out Euphemins (or for dislike of him.) This Emperour, before his inthroning, had given under his hand to Euphemius, a promise to stand for the Council : He demanded his writing again ; Euphemius denied him, and was cast out: Macedonins succeeded him : He had the fame writing : The Emperour demanded it of him: He alfo denied him: The Emperour would have put him out : The people rife up in fedition, and cryed, It is a time of Martyrdom : Let ns all stack to the Bishop : And they reviled the Emperour, calling him a Manichee, unworthy the Empire. The Emperour was fain to fubmit to Masedonius, who sharply rebuked him as the Churches enemy; but in time he remembred this, and cast out Macedonius, and burnt the Councils Acts, and put Timothy in his place, who prefently pull'd down the Image of Macedonius : The Patriarchs alfo of Alex. Antioch, & Bifhop of Jernfalem, were all cast out, even those that were against the Council. Pet. Cnapheus had made one Xenaias a Persian servant & unbaptized, Bishop of Hierapolis : He was against Images, and brought a troop of Monks to Antioch, to force Flavianus the Bishop to curse the Council: Flavianus denied it : The people fluck to the Bifhop, and fo unanswerably disputed down the Monks, that fo great a multitude of them were flain, as that they threw their bodies into the River Orontes, to fave them labour of burying of them. another flaughter as great as the former (fairh tle Historian.) For this the Emperour banift ed Flavianus, whole followers thought his punishment too great after all these murders. Poter being dead, the Bishops of Alexandria, Egypt and Lybia, fell in pieces among themfelves; each having their feparate Conventions : The reft of the East alfo separated from the West, because the West would not communicate with them, unlefs they would curfe Neftorius, Entyches, Diofcorus, Moggus, and Acacius. And yet (faith Niceph. l. 16. c. 8.) Qui Germani Diofcori G. Entychetis sectatores fuere, ad maximam paucitatem redacti funt. Xenaias bringeth to Flavian the names of Theodore, Theodorite, Ibas, and others, as Neftorians, and tells him, if he anothematize not all thefe, he is a Neftorian, v hatever he fay to the contrary : Flavian was unwilling, but his timerous fellow-B fhops perfwading him, he wrote his curfe against them, and fent it to the Emperour. Xenaias then went further, and required him to curfe the Council : They prevailed with the Isanian Bishops to consent and all renounced the refufers as Nefforians : And thus the Council having (in name) condemned the Ne-Storians and Eutychians, the Entychians called all Neftorians that curfed not the Council, and got many caft out. After Flavian, Severus got in at Antioch : The first day he curfed the Council (though it's faid that he fwore to the Emperour before that he would not) Niccp. c. 29. In Palestine there were renewed the like confusions about the condemnation of Flavian and Macedonins : About Antioch Severus Letters frightened many Bishops to curfe the Council, and those that that held two Natures : Some Bifhops revoked their fentence, and faid they did it for fear: Some ftood out: And the Isanrian Bishops, when they repented, condemned Severus himfelf, that drove them to fubfcribe : And fome Bifhops fled from their Churches for fear. Cofmas and Severianus fent a condemnation to Severus : The Emperour hearing of it, fent his Procurator to caft them out of their Bishopricks for prefuming to condemn their Patriarchs. The Procurator found the people fo refolute, that he fent word to the Emperour, that these two Bishops could not be caft out.without blood-fhed : The Emperour anfwered; that he would not have a drop of blood shed for the business. Heltas Bishop of Jerusalem, found all the other Churches in fuch confufion, condemning one another, that he would communicate with none of them but Euphemius at Conft. Nicop. c. 32. And that you may fee how people then were moved a Monk or Abbot Theodofins gathering an Affembly, loudly cryed out in the Pulpit, [If any man equal not the four Councils with the four Evangelists, let him be Anathema.] This voice of their Captain refolved them all, and they took it as a Law, that the four Councils fhould be [ facris libris accensenda ] and wrote to the Emperour certamen se de eis ad sanguinem usg; Substaros. (This was then the fubmiffion to Princes by the adherents to the Councils of the Bishops.) And they went about to the Cities to bring them to joyn with them. The Emperour wrote to Helias to reform this : He rejecting his Letters, Souldiers were fent to compel them. The Orthodox Monks gathered by the Bilhops, tumultuoufly cast the Emperours Souldiers out of the

The Emperour provoked, fent Olympins with a band of Souldiers to conquer them He came and cast out Helias, and put in John : The Monks gather again, and the Souldiers being gone, they caufe John to engage himfelf to be against Severus, and ftand for the Council, though unto blood; which, contrary to his word to Olympius, he did. The Emperour deposed Olympius, and sent another Captain Anastasius, who put the Bishop in prifon, and commanded him to defpife the Council ; confulting with another Bifliop, he promifed to obey him, if he would but let him out of prifon two daies before, that it might not feem a forced act: This being done, the Bifhop contrarily to the Congregation in the pulpit, before the Captain cryeth out Elf any affent to Entyches and Neftorins (contraries) and Severus and Soterichus Caftr, let him be Anathema : If any follow not the Opinions of the four universal Synods, let him be Anathema.] The Captain thus deluded, fled from the multitude, and was glad to fave himfelf: The Emperour being offended at this, the Bifhops write to him that at Jerusalem, the fountain of Doctrine, they were not now to learn the Truth, and they would defend the Traditions, if need be, even to blood.] Nicop. c. 34. 009 911 [ 1000 0

Timothy Bishop of Constantinople took the manpleasing way, and one while was for the Calcedon Council, another while he curfed it. Being to choose an Abbat, the Abbat refused his election, unleis he confented to the Council of Calcedon. Timothy curled those presently that received not the Council : His Archdeacon hearing him, reproached

Niceph. c. 35 Yet Rome though now under another King ( Theodorick an Arria Goth ) had a part in the Schifm: F ftus a Roman Schator was fent from Theodorick to the Emperour on an Embaffie : Which when he had done, he defired that Constantinople would keep holy daies for Peter and Paul as Rome did, and he prevailed : And he fecretly affured the Emperour that Anaftafins Bilhop of Rome would receive the Henoticon ( to fufpend the confent to the Calcedon Council ) and would fubfcribe it. But when the Embaffadour came home, the Pope was dead : To make good his word, he got a party to, choofe Laurentius Pope, that would do it : The people ( that then had the chief choice ) choice Symmachus fo there were two Popes: And the fedition continued three years not without flaughters, rapines and other calamities ( Niceph. c. 35.) till Theodorick an Arrian more rightcous than the Popes, called a fynod and confirmed Symmachus: But Laurentius firred up the people to fedition and was quite degraded. The Emperour favouring the addition [ Qui Crucifixus eft pro nobis ] the people feditionfly cut off a Morks head and fet it up on a pole inferibing it an enemy to the Trinity : The Emperour overcome with their confusion and orthodox rebellions, called an affembly and offered to refign his Crown, defiring them to choose another; which finote them with fuch remorfe, that they defired him to reaffume his Grown and promifed to forbear

Justin fucceeded Anastasius in the Empire, and fustinian him : These were for the Synod : But Theodora Justimans Wife was against it : Some thought by compact, that each part might have a head, which was indeed but one ( Niceph. 1. 17. c. 7. ) Should I tell you in their reigns how the Ecclefiastical war continued, how Pope Agathon munus impolnit Mene Constant. quod anten nunquam factum eft, Nicepis. c: 9; How Menas and the Pope excommunicated one another, and how Instinian used Vigilius the Pope, &c. it would be over tedious to tell. I have wrote this much to fhew you how far the Patriarchal feats conduced to the Churches peace, and how far the four first Councils of Bithops caufed Christian Love and Concord : No fuch things can be faid of the Arabians, and Novatian Phrygians and others that had Bifhops in the villages : Should I but now turn to Rome and tell you what was done there, all this Confusion, blood and mifery is but a jeaft to it : But I have faid enough of that in many treatifes against Popery; and particularly of the above 40 years Schifin when they had z or 3 Popes at once; and of the above 50 Popes that Baronius and Genebrard themselves call Apostatical, put in by whores and poylon, men not to be named, fave to keep a reckoning of the times; many damned by Councils as horrid Adulterers, Murderers, Simonifts, Hereticks, or Infidels: Nor will I recite how in the many wars between the Popes and Emperours, the Bithops fwore, and unfwore, and forfwore as the upper side compelled them, as Urspergensis' com-

Nor will I fland to tell you, how the Pope and Patriarch of Confrantinople (to whom adhere those of Antioch, Alexandria and ferusalem ) have these thousand years almost, divided and distracted the Christian world, by ftriving which should be the greatest, when Chrift had to fully decided the cafe. But what now if after to many hundred years confusion it thould prove, that all this flir was in the dark, and that Neftorms Entyches, and Diofcorns were of the fame mind except in words: Can the tongue of man then fufficiently express the Bithops guilt? A rare French Divine and Philosopher David Derodon hath written a Treatife de supposito; copioufly proving that Neftorius was orthodox; and Cyril an heretick, and all the first Ephefin Council that adhered to him ; that Euryches and ' Diofcoris taught but the fame herefie that Cyril did; that the Council of Calcedon ignorantly condemned Neftorins and truly ftablifhed his opinion; and cryed up Cyril and damned his doctrine : And he citeth abundant paffages out of Cyril, where he express denyeth two natures in Chrift, ( as Ep. 2. ad success. In Chrifto duas naturas unitas afferimus: post unionem vero adempta jam in duas divisione, unam effe credimus naturans filii incarnati: ) And that Neftorius exprelly affureth that there are two natures and but one perfon: The citations are numerous and undeniable. But I think that Cyril, Eutyches and Dioscorus (who were all of one mind) did mean that the natures were but one in opposition to division, but not in opposition to distinction. And that Nefterous faid they were two as diffinguished but not as divided, and all thi this blood, feparation and confusion was between men of one mind, for want of skill in the explication of words, and through worldly defigns. I know fome will fay, were all these Councils of Bishops fuch fools in comparison of you? But can a man deny notorious truth in reverence to Bifhops ? If fo, which part of the Bifhops muft I believe if they fay the fnow is black : The Arrians, and Eutychians were far the greater number.

And now as the beft Philosophers think that experiments de fatto must be premised to the Theory, fo we think this touch of hiftory must be confidered by them that think Jewish High Prietthood, or National, Patriarchal or Metropolitical Superiority is the neceffary means of the Churches Concord : Let them compare the diffentions caufed by little village Bishops and fynods for meer Concord, yea or by feparating heady people, with thefe which Patriarchall and Metropolitical feats have caused, and they will appear to be to them but as a scuffle at Billinfgate to the French Wars : And yet we have inftanced but in the best times of dominion, in comparison of which Councils, Prelates and later times have been a meer hurricane. In a word, they that think that the mischiefs of Superiour feats are greater than the benefits, do appeal to all Church history, whether they have not been the true and principal caufes of the diffractions of the Christian world, and of the long division of the East and West, and of many civil and grievous wars.

§ 40. And to the objections they fay, I: As to Appeals and Government of Inferiors, 1. That the last appeals have ever been made to General Councils: And how they went when ever the Prince Prince did but countenance errour, ( as in the daies of Constantius and Valens, many great Councils that were for the Arrians, and in Theodofius Juniors time, for the Eutychians &c. ) is too fad to think on. And is it not far more dangerous for many hundred in a Council to bear down a whole Empire or Kingdom, and raife perfecution, and there be no appeal from them, than for a poor Prieft to put a man from the Sacrament in his own Parish Church? How many Councils have been against Images in Churches, and how many for them, condemning one anothers acts? What good will appeals do to fuch, 2. In doctrinal cafes the confent of many tends to concord : But in cafes of perfonal practice, are they fit judges to appeal to, that dwell many hundred miles off, and know. none of the perfons; suppose a poor man in England is put from the Communion by a Parish-Priest (yea, perhaps an hundred or many hundred in fome parishes ) because he findeth some to be utterly ignorant fome to be drunkards, fornicators, heretical, &c. If these appeal but to a Diocesan which dwelleth 20, miles from some, 40, or 60, or 100 miles from others, the remedy is worfe than the disease : For if the Priest must travel so far, and bring his witneffes and plead the caufe with men that never faw the party before, ( where. neighbourhood giveth a furer knowledge than any fuch examination of ftrangers can do, and a ftrange Chancelor or Diocefan knoweth not which witneffes are most credible ) and all this while his Pastoral Charge (perhaps many thousand fouls) must be neglected, while the Minister is profecuting these appealing finners; will not the evil of this be greater than the benefit ? If you fay that it is not in the cafe of fuch finners as thefe whereof every Parish abounds, that you would have appeals, at leaft not to Patriarchs, fo far off; I anfwer, 1. Then anfwer your own objection : What remedy shall they have if the Bishop wrong them ? 2. What is the cafe than that you suppose such fupraordinations of power neceffary for? If you fay, If Ministers themselves should be excommunicate, It is answered, That none but Bishops or other fuperior powers pretend authoritatively asRectors to excommunicate Paftors ; Therefore this is nothing to them that are against all such superiority of Paftors: Where none fuch are, none fuch can excommunicate, or be injurious. "ill he repent. Now if this be done by one known to be heretical with whom the other Churches have no Communion, those other Churches are not bound to deny that man Communion. Nor yet if he offer himself to their Communion, and they examine the matter, and find him wronged. It is concord, in good, and not in evil, that we are bound to by the command of God : Therefore if any man be wrongfully put out of this Church, the next may and fhould receive him: And what new ceffity is there then, of going a thousand or an hundred miles to a Pope, or Patriarch, or Diocefan, to right him? And whoever thought that there was need of an Universal Physician, or Schoolmaster, or a General Council of fuch to receive appeals from Patients and Scholars that are wrongfully turned out of the Hospital or School?

The Caviller will here tell you of difparities in the cafes ; but the question is, whether the difrities be fuch as alter the reafon of the Conclusion. What man of confeience will be a Phyfician, Schoolmafter or Paftor, that hath not power to judge whom to receive for his Patient, Scholar, or part of his flock, but must take all that fome other man shall fend to him, or command him to receive, and give them what others command him to give? An Apothecary may do fo, but not a Physician, What if a man had no other scandal, but to fay, I will not take you for my Pastor, nor take my felf obliged to answer you, speak with you, give you any account of my felf, nor be questioned by you on any acculation, must I be constrained to suppose this man to be one of my flock in defpite of his own denyal? If the freedom of confent be not mutual, but I must be constrained to take those for for my charge as Chriftians, that renounce fuch a relation, or will not own it ; a Pastor is not a free man, nor hath any power of the Church-Keys, but is as an irrational Slave, a Cryer, or Executioner, that must but execute another mans commands.

2. But if there be need of appeals, and our own actions muft not be free, why will not the Synods of Neighbour-Pastors met only for Counfel and Concord (and not to command the Paftors) fuffice for fuch perfons to appeal to? And what if I turn a fervant out of my houle, or from his meat, and he may take another Mafter when he will, muft there be an universal Judge of all family cafes, that shall force me to keep my fervant against my will? Is it not enough that I know why I am unwilling to keep him, who am no way more bound to him than to others, but by my own confent? What if (as Nazianzen left Safimis, Constantinople, and Nazianzum at last) I should give up my whole Charge and Bifhoprick, and fay, I will be a Paftor to none of them any more, (upon fufficient rea-fons, as Latimer did :) Is it not better for the people to take another, than to accuse me at Rome, or Canterbury, as wronging them ?

3. But if all this ferve not (neither the fufficiency of Paftors for one fingle Parish, nor yet the Counfel of all the Neighbour-Pastors or Bishops,) what is there more to be done, which the authority of Princes and Mazifirates may not do ? All Chriftians confess (almost) that no Bishops or Paftors, as fuch, have from Chrift any forcing power over the flocks; that belongeth to the Magistrates only; And they are to keep peace, and force us to our certain duty. And I would ask the contraryminded, whether if Bifhops, Patriarchs and Councils had no forcing power, but only to excommunicate by the application of Gods word, and leaving all men to their confciences, would this fort of Government ferve their turn, and keep out Herefies, or maintain order and unity? They fay no, themfelves: And next, whether it be not certain, and confeffed, that the Paftors have no other power, but the Magiftrates only?

Obj. But shall all men gather Churches, and teach Herefic, and do what they will ?

Anfar. 1. The power of Popes, Patriarchs or Councils, did not prevent it, when there were all the Herefies that fill Epiphanins Volumns: And when the far greateft part of the Clergy was long. Arrian: And when the Neftorians and Entychians fo greatly multiplied after the condemnation of the Councils: And when the Novatians lived fo many years in reputation: and when the Donatifts nor they were not diminifhed by Prelates or Councils Cenfures, till the fword difperfed them. And cannot the Sword be drawn without fuch as have no power of it ?

3. And as to the laft (and greateft) reafon, that the Apofiles have fucceffors who muft orderly exercife their Government; it is anfwered 1. The common doctrine of the Church was, that all Bithops are their Succeffors fo far as they have fucceffions; and every Church of one Altar had a Bifhop in the daies of Ignatius, and long after. 2. The Council of Carthage faid, None of us calleth himfelf Bifhop of Bifhops. 3. But if any be fet as the Bifhop of many Bifhops and Churches, fo be it they use no violence, but govern volunteers as all the old Bifhops did, and forbid them nothing commanded of God, nor command them any thing thing which God forbiddeth, and deftroy not the order, doctrine, worship or discipline of the leffer particular Churches, we have before faid, that we shall fubmit to fuch.

§ 41. IV. As to the question, whether the Government fetled by Chrift in National Churches be (as to the Clergy from all parts, Monarchical)Ariftocratical or Democratical, and who must have the fummam potestatem? The difagreement of the perfons that we have herein to do with, puts us into utter defpair of any folution. And what good will it do us to believe that fome must be obeyed, if we cannot be certain who it is.

§ 42. V. And to the question, Whether the King be the formal, or only the accidental Church-head ? We find no more agreement. 1. Some think that the King, as Melchizedek, is a mixt perfon, fecular and Clergy, and hath both Offices to use and communicate, as they fay, the Princes before Aaron had. 2. Others fay, that this is not fo, but that the Clergy-jurifdiction, diftinct from the Prieftly common power, is a branch of the Christian Magistrates power, and fo derived from the King. 3. Others fay that the Church, formally, is diffinct from the Civil State, though not alwaies materially: And that the King as King, is but an Accidental Civil Head, as he is over Phyficians and Schoolmafters, being neither himself; and that the National Church must have a formal Clergy-bead, (Perfonal or Collective) which shall in fuo genere, be the higheft, though under the Magistrates Civil Government, as Phyficians are.'4. The Papifts fay, that all National Churches are under the Pope as Univerfal Paftor, who may alter them as he feeth caufe. 5. Some moderate men fay, that only Diocefan (and Metropolitical) Churches are inre Divino.

vino, and that they are called National, only improperly from one King, or concording affociation as ab accidente, and not properly from any formal Clergy-head.

§ 43. VI. Laftly, which is the formal Head of the Church of England, and fo what that Church is, we are left as much uncertain. 1. If it be only a Civil Head that denominateth it One, then it is but a Christian Kingdom, which we never questioned. And Dr. Rich. Cofins, in his Tables of the English Church-Policy, faith [That the King hath Administrationem supremam magisque absolutam, que dicitur Primatus Regius. And Tho. Crompton in his dedication of it to K. James, faith [ Ecclefiastica Jurifdictio plane Regia est, Corone & dignitatis vestra Regia prima, pracipua, indivisibilis pars : Ecclesiastica leges Regia sunt, neque alibi oriuntur, aut aliunde sustentantur, aut fulciantur : penes Ecclesiasticos judices per Archiepiscopos & Episcopos, derivata a Rege porestate, jurisdictio Ecclesiastica consistit: And yet our Kings and Church explaining the Oath of Allegiance, declare that the King pretendeth not to the Priefthood, or power to' administer the Word and Sacraments; but, as Crompton adds from Constantine, is extra Ecclesiam constitutus a Deo Episcopus; alii intra Ecclesiam Episcopi. This is plain: If they hold to this, and claim no power in the English-Policy, but as the Kings Officers, in that part which belongeth to Christian Magistrates, who will oppose them? But this reacheth not to the Keys, Preaching or Sacraments. 2. Some fay that the King is partly a Clergy-man, as Melchizedek, and fo that he is the formal Head, and might perform the Prieftly Office if he would : But this our Kings have themselves renounced. 3. Some fay that

Moft fay that the Convocation is the formal Church-Head, which makes it One Political Church. But 1. If fo, then why faith the Canon that the Convocation [ is the true Church of England by Reprefentation] and those excommunicate that deny it ? We enquire after the Church-Head or

And the Supream Power is fuppofed, By those that take Episcopacy for a diffinct Order, to be in the Supream Order only : But the far greater part of the Convocation are not of the Supream Order : Nay, thus the Presbyters should be partly the chief Governours of the Bifhops while they make Canons for them. 3. When we did but motion that according to Arch-Bishop Ushers form of the Primitive Episcopacy, Presbyters might joyn with the Bishops in proper executive Church-government instead of Lay-Chancellors, and such like, they decryed it as Presbytery, and call us Presbyterians ever fince : And if they fay that the Prefbyters have fo great a part in the Supream Government it felf, which obligeth all the Nation, how much more would they be themfelves Prefbyterians, which they fo abhor ?

§ 44. Having oft faid that we defire Christian Kingdoms as the great bleffing of the world, we mean not either that I. All in a Kingdom fhould. be forced to be baptized, or profess themselves Chri-

Chriftians, whether they are fo or not : For lying will not fave men, nor pleafe God ; and even the Papifts are against this: 2. Nor that all should be supposed to be Christians that are in the Kingdom. But that the Kings be Christians, and the Laws countenance Christianity, and the most or ruling part of the Kingdom be Chriftians, and all juft endeavours used to make all the reft fo: The Ancient Churches continued them Catechamens till they were fit for Baptism; and though they were for Infant-Baptism, they compelled none to be baptized in Infancy, or at Age, but left it to free choice. They baptized but twice a year ordinarily. They kept many offenders many years from communion. And if Crabs Roman Council fub filvest. be true, they at Rome admitted not penitents. till fourty years (understand it as you see cause :) The true Elibertine Canons kept many out fo ma-. ny years, and many till death, and many abfolutely, as shewed that they were far from taking all the Nation into the Church. And the Christian Emperours compelled none. It was long before the greatest part of the Empire were Christians. In the daies of Valens, the Bishops were some of them banished into places that had few Christians, if any. In France it felf, even in St. Martin's daies, the Christians of his flock were not the most, but he wrought miracles to convince the Heathens that raged against Christianity, where he dwelt, &c.

§ 1. There are two appendent Controversies handled by some that write for National Churches; which need but a brief solution : The first is, whether it be not an Independent Errour to expect real holiness in Church-members, as necessary in the judgment, ment of charity? The second, Whether it be not fuch an Errour to require the bond of a Covenant befide the Bapt (mal Covenant ?

§ 2 To the first we fay, that so much is written on this point by one of us in a Treatife called Difputations of Right to Sacraments, &c. that we think meet to fay no more: The Opponents now confess that it must be faving Faith and Confent to the Baptismal Covenant that must be professed : And Papifts and Protestants agree with all the Ancient Church, that Beptifin putteth the true Confenter into a fiate of certain pardon and title to life : And God maketh not known lying, a condition of Church-communion : He that believeth, and is baptized, shall be faved. It is true, that God hath not made Ministers Arbitrary Judges of mens fecret thoughts, but hath limited them in judging to take their tongues that profess Faith and Consent to be the Indices of their minds : But fure the power of the Keys containeth a power of judging according to Chrift's Law, who is to be taken into the Church by Baptifin, and who not: If only the feeker be made Judge, it will be a new way of Church-Government, and a bad. And then the queftion is, 1. Whether he that accepts ones profeffion feemingly ferious, of Faith and Confent, and that de prasente, is not bound to hope in charity that fuch a one doth not lie or diffemble? 2. Whether a baptized perfon, as fuch, have no right to our fpecial love which we owe to those that we hope are true Believers, and fanctified; but only to our common love and kindnefs, which belongeth to those also that are the heirs of Hell? Some friends that are gone from extream to extream. and in remembrance of their ancient Schifins, can look look but one way with impartial fenfe, and that have made their repentance the paffage to a greater errour and fin, should better bethink them them what they do. They did well to ftand ftill in the way of Schifin, when they faw here a leg, and there a hand, and there an arm in their way; and who but a mad-man indeed would not : But if they have impartially read Church-hiftory, and the works of fuch Fathers as give us hiftorical notices, and ever fince Constantine made a Bishoprick a bait to a proud and worldly mind ; even fuch as Nazianzen, Basil, Chryfostom, Isdore Pelusiota, Hilary Pictav. and the over-orthodox disputations of Cyril, and the Epiftles of Theodoret rejoycing at his death, and abundance of fuch like; had they feen in the way of Church-pride and tyranny, not here a leg, and there an arm, but here a hundred carkaffes, and there a thousand; here two thousand godly faithful Preachers filenced, and many thoufand dry. Vines planted in their rooms, and there whole Kingdoms interdicted, and their Churches fhut up; here Churches and Kingdoms turned into confusions about a word, or about the interest of Prelates, ftriving which fhould be the Chief, and have their will and rule the reft; and there hundred thousands murdered in the name of Christ, for obeying him, and bloody wars managed by the Clergy against Christian Emperours, and Kings ftabbed one after another; and most of the Christian world, Roman, Greek, Moscovites, Armenians, Abaffines, degenerated into doleful ignorance and dead formality under the Government of great High-Priefts, and millions of the vulgar bred up in ignorance and fenflefnefs of fpiritual and eternal things ; this fhould ftop them, (at least from ferving

3. At least we would intreat them to hate that miftake, which will pretend to do all this for charity, unity and the Churches good ; and to believe that it is no fign of charity, 1. To believe that charity fhould not be exercifed in judging that men profeffing faving faith do fpeak the truth, and have the faith that they profes: 2. Nor to teach all Chrifts Church, that a baptized Church member as fuch is to be lookt on but as a man in a ftate of damnation; and no man is bound to love him as a true Christian with a special love: 3. And that to prove that a man is not to be taken for a true Christian, but to be admitted into Church Communion as one that fhall have a greater damnation than heathens, without a further renovation, is a great act of Charity, Contrary to the uncharitable narrowness of others. These are too great receffes from Anabaptiftry, but not from real Schifm.

§ 3. As for those that will not take the intelligent ferious profifion of true Faith, and Covenant-Confent for a credible fign of the fincerity of the Profeffor, till they can fufficiently difprove it, but will be the arbitrary Judges of mens hearts, either as pretended heart-fearchers, or by felf-devifed, or uncertain figns, not taking up with this Profeffion, we are no Patrons of fuch mensprefumption and uncharitablenefs.

§ 4. There are various degrees of Credibility in mens profeffions; fome give us fo much as is next to certainty; fome but fmall hopes: But yet till we can difprove them, we are to take their profeffions as credible in fome degree. And if they prove falfe, it is they that will have the lofs.

§ 5. II. The fecond cafe about Church Covenants deferveth no longer a difcuffion. He that will put any article unneceffary into any fuchCovenanr, finfully corrupteth the order of the Church: As if he would bind the people to be Church Governours, or never to depart from that particular Church but by the confent of the Paftor, or the flock, or any fuch like: And he miftaketh that will make a more explicite contract to be more neceffary than it is. But it feemeth ftrange to us that any understanding Christian should deny, that confent is abfolutely neceffary to the being of an adult member both of the universal, and each particular Church respectively. What bindeth a man to confent is another queftion, but if he be any member of the Church till he profe fs confent, we know not what a Christian or Church member is. An explicite covenant is necessary to our relation to the Universal Church for it must be folemnized facramentally : That we express it by writings or words is not of neceffity to our membership of a particular Church : But confent is neceffary ; And mutual confent expressed fatisfactorily, is a contract or Covenant: If the Paftor fay all that confent, hold up your hand, or ftand up, or ftay here while the reft depart, &c. thefe are fignifications of confent : And if it be notified that all that appear at the folemn Affemblies, and attend the Paffors Ministry, shall be taken for Confenters, their prefence and attendance is a profession of Confert indeed, and fo a covenanting. But though the most explicit be not neceffary ad effe, no man can give a reafon why it should not be best ad bene effe, feeing the most intelligent and plain dealing in the great things of God, are most fuitable to the work, and fitteft

§ 6. It is certain that to be a Christian maketh no man a member of any mans particular flock or charge. And it is certain that none can be fuch without confent. And it is certain that the Paftor is not to take every Atheift, Jew, Infidel, Papift, Heretick, &c. in his Parish for a member of the Univerfal, or of that particular Church. Therefore he must know whom to take for fuch. And it is certain that the confent must be mutual, fo far is the Paftor from being a flave, and bound to every mans defires, that he is entrusted with the Church Keys himfelf.

§ 7. A worthy perfon on this fubject maketh these fix things sufficient to such Church relation : 1. That they be baptized Christians; 2. Neighbours bound to mutual love ; 3. And apt to Neighbourly duty ; 4. That providence make us fuch Neighbours; 5. Scripture Churches took their name from cohabitation: 6. The command of authority, that fo it shall be. Fresh suit. pag. 260.

Anf. By making these fix the sufficient proof of Parish Churches, our friend unhappily would confequently unchurch them all: For if this were all, certainly they were none at all. For all thefe (which he maketh more than they are)are but the dispositio materia, antecedent to any reception of the form, 1. For all that he inferreth or can infer from them all is obligation to confent and to other duties after confent. But obligation maketh not the relation of a member : All that are obliged to be Chriftians are not Chriftians : All that are obliged to be Paftors are not Paftors : Nor all that are obiged to confent first and to do the duty of Pastors after after : Even as all that are obliged to confent to be fubjects, Husbands, Wives, Mafters, Servants, Tutors, Scholars, &c. are not fuch : If meer obligation ferve to one relation, why not to others? 2. Else a man might be a true Pastor unchosen, unordained and against his will. For he may by his qualifications be obliged to be ordained and to become a Paftor. 3. And fo the people may be the flock of one that was obliged to be their Paffor, when another is fet over them and in poffeffion, because it was the first that was obliged, and they to choose him : And so utter Confusion will come in : And if a man can prove that another mans wife and fervant was obliged to be his, he may take them as his indeed. 3. By this rule all the Papifts, Seekers, Quakers, &c. that renounce our Churches, fhould yet be members of them, becaufe they live in the Parish, and are commanded to be members: Which who believeth ? 4. A member of a Church hath right to Communion and Ministerial vigilancie and help: But fo hath not every baptized perfon that is commanded to be a member, and obeyeth not that command. If a man fay to a Paftor, I will be none of your flock, or Church, but yet I require you to do the office of a Paftor to me, though I renounce your relation to me, and the people to use me as a member of the flock, because I am commanded to be a member, this were a firange claim. 5. If this did hold, then no man that liveth in the Parish could be a proper separatist, so as to break off himself from that Church, nor become a member of another, unleis he apostatized from Christ: For he would be still under the Magistrates Command and obligation : But the confequent is abfud : Why do the
